

THE REPOSITORY.

2021 ADVERTISING GUIDE

hello@therepository.email

WHAT IS THE REPOSITORY?

The Repository is a fun and informative conversational-style newsletter for the WordPress community.

Each week, we gather the news—told via the latest headlines—and find out what everyone’s saying on Twitter. Then we put it all together into a email that gives everyone a say, no matter who you are or what you do with WordPress.

We sent our first issue on Friday 8 November 2019 and continue to send out a new issue each week.

WHY EMAIL ADVERTISING?

Email remains one of the most effective methods for reaching and engaging target audiences:

Email is portable. Thanks to mobile phones, everyone has their email in their pocket. So no one is ever truly offline. Your email ad will exist in their inbox until hopefully opened.

Email is reliable. Social may be great for brand discovery and sharing content but email is a more reliable way of reaching and communicating with your customers.

Email drives ROI. For every dollar businesses invest in email marketing, you get $42 in return, according to Litmus research into email marketing ROI.

Email is direct and personalized. When you advertise with The Repository, you choose how you want your ad to look—your words and your images.

OUR AUDIENCE

The Repository audience comprises business owners, professionals, developers, influencers, consultants, marketers, and general users.

When you advertise in The Repository, you are guaranteed to reach your target audience—WordPress users who are invested in the platform and are open to learning more about your brand.

The Repository is put together by the WordPress community for the WordPress community. Rae has been part of the community for 10+ years and keeps on top of the latest news. As a WordPress business owner, she understands what subscribers want to know.
